Telemarketing (11)

Title

Telecommunications: automatic dialing-announcing devices: call mitigation technology.

Description

AB 3007, as introduced, Chau. Telecommunications: automatic dialing-announcing devices: call mitigation technology. Existing law authorizes the Public Utilities Commission to control and regulate the use of automatic dialing-announcing devices, which existing law defines as automatic equipment that incorporates a storage capability of telephone numbers to be called, or a random or sequential number generator capable of producing numbers to be called, and the capability to disseminate a prerecorded message to the telephone number called. Existing law prohibits a person from operating an automatic dialing-announcing device except for specified purposes and uses, including to transmit a message to an established business associate, customer, or other person having an established relationship with the person using the automatic dialing-announcing device to transmit the message or to call a recipient at the recipient's request. Existing law prohibits a person operating an automatic dialing-announcing device from making a telephone connection for which no person, acting as an agent or telemarketer, is available for the person called. This bill would instead define "automatic dialing-announcing devices" for these purposes as automatic equipment that stores and calls, or automatically sends text messages to, telephone numbers, that generates in a random or sequential order and calls, or automatically sends text messages to, telephone numbers, that makes telephone calls that include artificial or prerecorded voice messages, or that sends text messages that include prewritten text messages. The bill would repeal the authorization for the use of automatic dialing-announcing devices to make calls pursuant to an established business relationship or the recipient's request. Existing law authorizes the use of automatic dialing-announcing devices pursuant to a prior agreement between the persons involved, whereby the person called has consented to receive the call. This bill would specifically authorize the person called to revoke that consent at any time and in any reasonable manner, regardless of the context in which the consent was provided. Under existing law, the commission has regulatory authority over public utilities, including telephone corporations. Existing law, with specified exceptions, directs the commission to require any call identification service offered by a telephone corporation, or by any other person or corporation that makes use of the facilities of a telephone corporation, to allow a caller to withhold, on an individual basis, the display of the caller's telephone number from the telephone instrument of the individual receiving the call. Existing law prohibits a caller from withholding the display of the caller's bus... (click bill link to see more).

Autodialer-Caller Id-Consent

Description
Amends the Automatic Telephone Dialers Act. Redefines "recorded message" to mean any artificial or recorded communication that includes or introduces an advertisement or constitutes telemarketing without live voice interaction (rather than any taped communication soliciting the sale of goods or services without live voice interaction). Prohibits an autodialer from providing inaccurate caller ID information in violation of a specified federal law and regulations of the Federal Communications Commission. Provides that it is a violation of the Act to play a recorded message (rather than a prerecorded message) placed by an autodialer without the (i) prior express consent of the called party or (ii) the prior express written consent of the called party if the call is a call that delivers a health care message made by, or on behalf of, a covered entity or its business associate as those terms are defined in a specified provision of the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996. Defines "telemarketing" and "prior express written consent".

Mobile applications: recordable information: privacy.

Description

AB 2414, as introduced, Chau. Mobile applications: recordable information: privacy. Existing law, the California Consumer Privacy Act of 2018, grants a consumer various rights with regard to the consumer's personal information that is held by a business, including the right to know what personal information is collected by a business, to have personal information held by that business deleted, and to direct a business to not sell the consumer's personal information, as specified. Existing law requires an operator of a commercial website or online service that collects personally identifiable information through the internet, about individual consumers residing in California who use or visit its commercial internet website or online service, to make a privacy policy available to consumers and to include specified information relating to the collection of personally identifiable information within that privacy policy. This bill would require the operator of a mobile application to provide clear and conspicuous notice that fully informs consumers when, how, and why their recordable information, defined to include visual, audio, or geolocation information, will be collected, used, and shared upon installation of the application. The bill would require the operator of a mobile application to obtain consent before collecting or using recordable information and to obtain separate consent before disclosing that information.

Public social services: emergency notification.

Description

SB 753, as amended, Stern. Public social services: emergency notification. Existing law permits an authorized employee of a county social services department to disclose the name and residential address of elderly or disabled clients to police, fire, or paramedical personnel, or other designated emergency services personnel, in the event of a public safety emergency that necessitates the possible evacuation of the area in which those elderly or disabled clients reside. Existing law specifies that public safety emergencies include, but are not limited to, events that jeopardize the immediate physical safety of county residents. This bill would additionally permit those individuals' telephone numbers and e-mail addresses to be disclosed and would specifically identify a public safety power shut-off as a public safety emergency. The bill would require a county social services agency that intends to disclose information as described above to notify elderly or disabled individuals receiving services of that fact and give the individual the option to opt out of having that information disclosed. The bill would limit the use of the disclosed information to providing emergency services in the event of a public safety emergency described above.
